

Thinking and Rethinking

Submitted by Lena on Mon, 08/22/2011 - 9:37pm

I'm beginning to rethink my choice of topics for my keynote talk at the upcoming Edge Life Expo in November. After Claire's death and the passing of many of my animal communication clients I decided to talk about "Animals and Death -What They Teach Us About the Dying Process and Beyond". I thought I had more than enough material for the talk both from a personal perspective and from those animals I have communicated with before and after death.

Then in early August all of that changed when I lost two of my cats within five hours of each other. Evidently there was still more for me to experience, learn and share.
